6 DAYS 5 NIGHTS WILD ORANG UTAN EXPEDITION (BATANG AI NATIONAL PARK)
LET'S GO TRAVELING AROUND BORNEO SARAWAK

ITINERARY:

Introduction
 Orang Utan

The Borneon Orang Utan (Pongo Pygmaeus) is a species of orang utan native to the island of Borneo. Together with the Sumatran Orang utan and Tapanuli Orangutan, it belongs to the only genus of the apes native of Asia. Like the other great apes, orangutans are highly intelligent, displaying tool use and distinct cultural patterns in the wild. Orangutans share approximately 97% of their DNA with humans.

Batang Ai National Park (Expedition location)
 Batang Ai National Park is part of the region's largest trans-national protected area for tropical rainforest conservation. The 24 sq km park adjoins the Lanjak - Entimau Wildlife Sanctuary in Malaysia and the Bentuang - Karimun National P in Indonesia. Together these totally protected areas cover almost 10,000 sq km and form a sanctuary for one of the new viable orang utan populations in Borneo (estimated at over 1,000 animals) as well as many other endangered species. For conservation reasons, Batang Ai National Park is the only part of this area open to visitors, but as it has the highest orang utan population density in central Borneo (up to 1.7 animals per sq km), there is a good possibility of seeing wild orang utan. However orang utan sighting should be regarded as a bonus not as a guaranteed experience.

Itinerary:
 Day 01: Meet & Greet
 02: Batang Ai National Park
 Day 03: Orang Utan expedition
 Day 04: Orang Utan expedition
 Day 05: Kuching
 Day 06: Departure.

What to expect:
 This trip has an activity rating of moderate, traveler should be physically fit and prepared for multiple hours of walking or hiking over uneven terrain on some days. While tracking primates, guest will trek up to maximum 4 hours through thick jungle (Depend on the trail taken).
